DECISION IN THE U S DISTRICT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY

[illegible]

U S District Court, District of Oregon, Thursday, April 1, 1873.

United States vs [illegible] McArdle. Indictment No. 22.

This indictment was found on March 7, 1873, and charges that the defendant on February 26, 1873, being lawfully engaged as a cook upon the British ship Gemma, within the district aforesaid, did then and there wilfully and continuously disobey the lawful commands of the chief officer of said ship—stating the command—contrary to the statute, etc.

On the trial the jury found a verdict of guilty of disobedience, but not continuous. Afterwards the defendant's counsel moved in arrest of judgment, which motion was argued and submitted on March 19.

The ground of the motion is, that the facts stated in the indictment do not constitute a crime against the laws of the United States.

Section 51 of the act of June 7, 1872 (17 Stat 27[illegible]), commonly called the Shipping act, provides: "That when any seaman who has been lawfully engaged * * * commits any of the following offences, he shall be liable to be punished as follows, that is to say: * * * Fourthly, for wilful disobedience to any lawful command, he shall be liable to imprisonment, etc. Fifthly, for continued wilful disobedience to lawful commands * * * he shall be liable to imprisonment for any period not exceeding six months," etc.

Counsel for the motion maintain that this act does not apply to seamen other than those on board American vessels. In support of this position he cites sections 47, 50, 55 and 65 and the title of the act as being incompatible with the idea that the act was intended to apply to seamen on foreign vessels, even in American waters. But it does not necessarily follow that if sections 47, 50 and 55 are inapplicable to seamen on foreign ships section 51 should be construed to be so also. In scope and purpose they differ very much from the latter one. Sections 47 and 50 relate to the collection and disposition of the unpaid wages and effects of seamen dying in the United States, while section 51 relates solely to the misconduct of seamen. Besides these sections 47 and 50 do not in terms exclude from their operation the wages and effects of seamen belonging to foreign ships. Like the section under consideration their language is general and unqualified and includes all seamen in the circumstances therein described. The subject matter—the collection and disposition of the unpaid wages and effects of seamen dying in the United States—is as much within the jurisdiction of the National Government in the case of seamen belonging to foreign ships as American ones, and so far as appears, I see no reason why these sections should be held inapplicable to either.

Section 55 relates to the disposition of seamen's wages and effects forfeited for desertion and other offences against the act. It is also general and unqualified in its terms and may as well apply to the wages of a seaman belonging to a foreign ship, where the act causing the forfeiture takes place within the jurisdiction of the United States, as those of any other.

But section 65 is the one principally relied upon by counsel, as showing, that the whole act, and every section of it, however general and unqualified in its terms, must be restrained to the cases of seamen on vessels belonging to citizens of the United States. It provides—

Sec 65. "That to avoid doubt in the construction of this act, every person having the command of any ship belonging to any citizen of the United States shall, within the meaning and for the purposes of this act be deemed and taken to be the 'master' of such ship; and that every person (apprentices excepted) who shall be employed or engaged to serve in any capacity on board the same shall be deemed and taken to be a 'seaman' within the meaning and for the purposes of this act; and that the term "ship" shall be taken and understood to comprehend every description of vessel navigating on any sea or channel, lake or river to which the provisions of this law may be applicable, and the term 'owner' shall be taken and understood to comprehend all the several persons, if more than one, to whom the ship shall belong."

Now the effect of all this, is only to declare, in a certain class of cases, to wit: ships "belonging to any citizen of the United States," two things already well established, (1), that the person having the command of a ship shall be deemed the master thereof, and, (2), that every person employed thereon shall be deemed a seaman. But the section does not declare that the term "seamen" as used in the act or that the act itself shall be held to apply only to seamen serving on ships belonging to citizens of the United States, and therefore it does not affect the question under consideration.

Moreover the definition here given of the term "ship" furnishes evidence that Congress did not intend to limit the operation of the act in all respects to American ships and their crews. If such had been the intention of the lawmaker, the language employed would have been to this effect: the term "ship" shall be taken to comprehend every description of vessel belonging to any citizen of the United States and not otherwise, instead of which the term is defined so as to comprehend, at least, every description of vessel, whether foreign or domestic, navigating "on any" water within the jurisdiction of the States for the provisions of this law must be applicable to any sea or channel, lake or river, within the jurisdiction of the government which enacted it.

It is also insisted that the title of the act indicates that it was not the intention of Congress to include seamen belonging to foreign ships within its operation. The title reads: "An act to authorize the appointment of Shipping Commissioners by the several Circuit Courts of the United States, to superintend the shipping and discharge of seamen engaged in merchant ships belonging to the United States, and for the further protection of seamen."

The title of an act cannot control plain words in the body of the statute, but taken in connection with other parts it may assist in removing ambiguities. United States vs Fisher, 2 Cranch, 386.

I find the latest enunciation of the general rule upon this subject laid down in Hadden vs the Collector, 5 Wal. 110, by Mr Justice Field as follows:

"The title of an act furnishes little aid in the construction of its provisions. Originally in the English courts the title was held to be no part of the act; 'no more,' says Lord Holt, 'than the title of a book is part of the book.' Mills vs Wilkins, 6 Mod., 62. It was generally framed by the Clerk of the House of Parliament where the act originated and was intended only as a means of convenient reference. At the present day the title constitutes a part of the act, but it is still considered as only a formal part; it cannot be used to extend or restrain any positive provisions contained in the body of the act. It is only when the meaning of these is doubtful that resort may be had to the title, and even then it has little weight. It is seldom the subject of special consideration by the legislature. These observations apply with special force to acts of Congress. Every one who has had occasion to examine them has found the most incongruous provisions, having no reference to the matter specified in the title."

Admitting for the time being that it is doubtful whether the word "seamen" as used in section 51 should be held to include the defendant, does the title aid in solving such doubt, and how?

It specifies three subjects: (1) the appointment of shipping commissioners; (2) the employment and discharge of seamen, and (3) the further protection of seamen.

If in the body of the act it is doubtful as it appears to be whether these commissioners are only to superintend the employment and discharge of seamen engaged on ships belonging to citizens of the United States, then this plain indication in the title of the purpose of the act in this respect, would resolve such doubt accordingly. But section 51 does not relate to the employment of seamen, but their discipline and punishment for desertion, disobedience and disorder, and therefore this specification in the title does not affect the question of what seamen this section includes.

The third specification in the title is, "the further protection of seamen." This clause does not in terms confine the operation of the act in this respect to any particular seamen, but so far as it goes, indicates that the term, except in the matter of their employment and discharge, was intended to include "seamen" engaged on any ship while within the jurisdiction of the United States.

The subject of the protection of seamen is provided for in what may be called a chapter of the act entitled "Protection of Seamen," being sections 61 to 64 inclusive. They relate to the attachment and assignment of seamen's wages, and the unlawful boarding of vessels and soliciting seamen to go on shore.

From the terms used and the nature of things their operation is confined to ports and waters of the United States, and all their provisions are alike applicable to any seaman in an American port without reference to the nationality of the vessel on which he is engaged, and there can be no doubt but that the best public policy of a commercial people and the comity of civilized nations demand that this should be so.

The act from section 51 to 59, inclusive of both, relates to the conduct of seamen and so far is designated,—"Discipline of seamen." The subject is not mentioned in the title and therefore it can have no effect in the construction of these sections. As in the case of the sections relating to the "Protection of Seamen," no discrimination is attempted to be made in the sections between seamen on account of the nationality of the vessels in which they are engaged or for any reason. Wherever the term "seamen" occurs it is used generally and without qualification.

The first of these, section 51, is the one under which this indictment is found. It relates wholly to the definition and punishment of offences by seamen, such as desertion, disobedience, embezzlement of cargo and the like, all or any which may be committed in an American port by seamen serving on foreign vessels as well as on American. The language of the section is plain and peremptory and includes the case of the defendant, and unless it appears from some other provision of the act, that the word "seaman," as here used, should be construed to apply only to seamen engaged on board ships belonging to citizens of the United States, there must be judgment in pursuance of the verdict.

Every commercial nation is directly interested in maintaining discipline, and preventing desertion and disobedience among the crews of foreign vessels while in its ports. If such conduct is allowed to go unpunished so far as they are concerned, the example will become contagious and lead to general disorder, to the injury of commerce and the country. The comity of nations requires that each one will furnish the means of arresting and punishing any seaman guilty of these offences while in its ports.

The argument for the defendant assumes that his case is not within the letter of the act and cites U S vs Sheldon, 2 Whea., 120, to show that a penal act ought not to receive an equitable construction, so as to extend it to a case, not within the correct and ordinary meaning of its language. The rule as stated in the authority is admitted, but it is an error to assume that the case of the defendant is not within the letter of section 51. In fact, the defendant seeks to have the act equitably construed in his favor, so as to take his case out of the plain letter of the section.

Take the section as it reads and the defendant being a seaman lawfully engaged on the ship Gemma, within the jurisdiction of this Court at the time of the commission of the willful disobedience alleged in the indictment, he is within the correct and ordinary signification of its language, and as there is nothing in the act, its title, purpose or nature to justify a narrowing construction of this language, so as to exclude from its operation the case laid in the indictment, there is no ground upon which the motion can be allowed.

DEADY, J

A C Gibbs, for plff.
Cyrus Dolph, for deft

It looks as though Senator Eugene Casserly is really determined to compel an inquiry in the management of the Central Pacific. For some time past it has been whispered that those interested in the Contract and Finance Company—an organization under the Central Pacific, and similar to the Credit Mobilier in its workings—could if put to the committee rack, divulge transactions hardly less questionable than the villainies of the Credit Mobilier. Before its adjournment, the Senate adopted the following resolution, offered by Mr Casserly:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Treasury and the Secretary of the Interior are respectfully directed to transmit any information in their Departments as to the amount of bonds issued by or to the credit of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, forming a first mortgage or lien upon the Company's road and property, and on what property specifically, and also the amounts of said bonds issued from time to time and what dates they were issued; also to ascertain and report under what general designation such bonds are commonly negotiated, and all such information to be brought down to the latest dates.

The various railway companies over whose roads the Government mails are now carried in postal cars, demand eight hundred dollars per mile, an advance of $424 on the sum now paid them, three hundred and seventy five dollars per mile. Relative to this matter a recent dispatch from New York says:

There is considerable stir at the Postoffice over the expected withdrawal by the railroad companies of postal cars from the service on the first of April. It is thought that the force of clerks will be utterly unable to attend to the great flood of matter which in that event will pour in, and it is estimated that four days will be required for the delivery of letters which now reach their destination in fifteen hours.

It is rumored that if the companies persist in their determination the Postmaster General will endeavor to procure the passage of a law giving the Department special powers over railroads.

The politeness of street car drivers will never become proverbial. "Do you want to ride?" yelled one of these worthies yesterday to a lady and gentleman who were on a cross walk as the car dashed up. "No," was the reply. "Then why didn't you say so."—New York Tribune.

It is stated that General Whittlesey, formerly an officer in the Freedmen's Bureau, has become insane. He is now an occupant of an Asylum at Washington.

Supreme Court Decision

In Barrett vs Barney et al. This is an action brought by Barrett to recover of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express Company damages alleged to have been done to a building in which their office in San Francisco is located by the explosion of nitro glycerine. The question was whether as common carriers they were liable for having in their possession the fatal box and consequently for damage done by the explosion to other portions of the building than the rooms occupied by them. The decision below was in their favor and it is here affirmed.

Serious Illness of James Brooks

The Tribune's Washington special says Representative Brooks is so low to-day that his friends are very anxious about his recovery. He has not been able to leave his room for three weeks.

EASTERN STATES

The Rise in Gold, Etc.

CHICAGO, April 1.—A New York dispatch says the new Treasury programme has had serious effect in financial circles. Gold has advanced three per cent and money has risen to ⅛ per cent per diem or 289 per cent per annum. The gold market is buoyant and excited with wide and frequent fluctuations, opening steady at 16¾@17. There was an early rise to 17¼, followed by a decline to 16⅞, from which a steady upward movement carried premium to 18¼. There was heavy buying on mercantile account and to cover outstanding short contracts. A large advance induced considerable realizations, under which the market finally reacted at 17⅛. The closing bidding rate was with 17⅛ asked.

NEW YORK, April 1.—The bound of gold to 118⅛ to-day causes great excitement, which borders on a panic. No failures are yet reported but it is believed that unless the excitement is checked and the market is steadied some failures will necessarily occur.

The Brooklyn Murder Mystery.

NEW YORK, March 31.—The story published in a sensational paper yesterday, that it was known that Roscoe was the murderer of Goodrich, is pronounced by officials a fiction. They think that Roscoe may have had something to do with it, and that the authorities seek his arrest, but Mrs. Myers alias Armstrong is known to have been at the house on the night of the murder and had been in company with Goodrich in New York until 9 o'clock, when they parted amicably. There is no clue to the whereabouts of Kate Stoddard, who was an intimate friend of the deceased. She is a suspected party and could probably throw light on the matter. On the other hand the Chief of the Police relates that Mrs. Myers admitted to him that Roscoe was the murderer, but her statement does not correspond with what has been published. The Chief of Police here thinks, however, that Mrs Myers is not a party to the crime.

Panic in a Church.

TRENTON, March 31.—While the funeral services of Rev Father Maclain were in progress this morning at St John's Catholic Church, a cracking noise created the impression that the gallery was giving way, and there immediately ensued a fearful panic in the rush for exit. Women and children were trampled beneath the crowd, which became wedged about the doors for about ten minutes. Meanwhile the women and children were being pulled out by stalwart men. Many presented a shocking sight and a great excitement was created in the street. Ladders were raised to the church windows, and people were thereby taken out. Some of the clergy, of whom there were twenty in the church, jumped out of the window and went to the front doors and announced the safety of the building, but without avail. Soon, however, the fears subsided and services were resumed. The cracking emanated from kneeling boards. Some fourteen were wounded, some seriously.

TRENTON, N J, March 31.—The total number of persons injured by the church panic is twenty. Nine have died and three or four are in dangerous condition.

Accidental Shooting

BALTIMORE, March 31.—The report that Wm T Land, street commission merchant, had committed suicide, is incorrect. It is stated to-night, by relatives of Land street, that the shooting was accidental and not fatal as reported.

An Outrageous Murder.

PEORIA, Ills, March 31.—A widow named Elizabeth Hodge was murdered Sunday at Eureka, Ills. She had $150 in her possession. The body was partially eaten by hogs. The murderers are unknown.

Miscellaneous

NEW YORK, March 31.—The death of Mrs. James Gordon Bennett is announced by cable. It occurred at Koenigstein, Saxony.

A special from Key West says the Cuban patriots lately captured Woanzarillo, an important point on the eastern coast. In consequence of orders from President Cespedes of Cuba, changes have been made in the personnel of the representatives of the Cuban Republic in this country. A confidential agency is established in the place of the existing officers, and Mayor accordingly resigns the agency held by him.

A special dispatch says a missing passenger is supposed to be on the train that met with the accident reported yesterday from Rutland, thus adding another victim to the killed.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 1.—The Bar Association, this afternoon, considered the following:

Resolved, That the testimony given by Judge C. T. Sherman before the committee in the recent investigation by Congress, and letters admitted by him to be genuine evince a want of integrity, and such moral turpitude as to destroy all confidence in his judicial administration and require that he should at once resign and relieve the Federal court from embarrassment consequent upon his continued occupancy of the Judgeship.

Action upon the resolution was postponed to give Judge Sherman an opportunity to communicate with the Association.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Spanish Affairs

MADRID, March 31.—Dispatches from Barcelona say the situation in that city is grave. Intelligence has reached here that the town of Verga was captured by Carlists on Friday. It had first been destroyed by fire by the insurgents, who, before applying the torch, saturated a number of buildings with petroleum. The burning of the town caused great excitement in Barcelona.

Parties are assembling in the streets in large crowds and disorders are feared. The authorities are making every effort to allay excitement and prevent a disturbance. Reprisals were threatened against the clergy as a number are known to be Carlists. Verga contained a hospital and several convents and had over 6,000 population.

The "Thunderer" on American Financial Speculations.

LONDON, April 1.—The Times in a recent city article, stated that speculation in sterling exchange was going on in New York on a gigantic scale and estimated that loans to the amount of £12,000,000 existed. Subsequently Reuter's telegram from New York showed that the Times estimate was exaggerated. It states that bankers there were of the opinion that loans were considerably inside £5,000,000. The Times to-day alludes to the contradiction and explains that the statement in its article was based only on quotations in New York papers and in circulars of American bankers.

From Rome.

ROME, March 31.—A party of Catholic youths, one a native of England, while leaving Church yesterday were attacked by some men who were lying in wait for them and severely beaten. Gens d'armes interfered and the assailants fled. Two or three youths were wounded.

UTAH

SALT LAKE, March 31.—In an affray at Silver City [illegible] John Oakes, a saloon keeper, shot with a [illegible] Richard Tyler, a blacksmith. An old grudge was the cause. The wound is probably fatal.

The first company of Mormons from San Francisco en route to Arizona will move in a few days. No women are in the company. The excellent prospects for crops this season undoubtedly cause considerable reluctance upon the part of many emigrants to leaving.

NEVADA.

Thrilling Word from Winnemucca

WINNEMUCCA, March 31.—A shooting scrape occurred here last night between Reinhart and a man named Berge. They disputed about some trifling matter, when Reinhart drew a pistol and shot at Berge, inflicting a slight wound in the head.

LATER—Reinhart has left for parts unknown. They were both strangers in the town. Whisky was the cause.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31.—The spiritualists are celebrating the twenty fifth anniversary of the Rochester rappings.

J. H. Mansfield is again on trial for attempting to murder his sister, Mary Hein. This is the third trial and it will be concluded to-morrow.

Up to this time nothing has been heard of the [illegible].

Frederick Geary of Merced county, is under arrest charged with stealing 25,000 pounds of wheat from [illegible] & Co., valued at nine hundred and ninety dollars. It is alleged he had the grain in his charge for the firm, that he sold it and pocketed the proceeds. He had purchased a railroad ticket for the East.

[illegible] who pleaded guilty to conspiracy in the matter of shipping the boy Hansen on board a German vessel has been fined $500, and in default of payment is in jail.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—No tidings yet of Professor Lay the balloonist.

George [illegible], the young man accused of forging omnibus railroad tickets, was released on his own recognizance and immediately sailed for Australia. The Municipal Court permitted this action at the request of the President of the Company.

WEDNESDAY MORNING APRIL 2 1873

The School Election

On next Monday the annual school election will be held This district contains more than five hundred legal voters and therefore comes within the proviso contained in section 34 of the school law as amended by the last Legislature This proviso is that in any district containing five hundred or more qualified voters, the annual election for directors and clerk shall be held from 2 P M till 6 P M of the first Monday in April that such election shall be by ballot that judges of such election shall be appointed by the directors of such district who shall sit at the time and place appointed to receive and canvass the votes and that in such districts no other business shall be transacted on the day of election, but a meeting shall be held on the Monday evening following such election at 7 30, for the transaction of the remaining business of the district

These are all the provisions of the law with reference to the manner of conducting the election in such districts, but it is presumed the provisions of the general election law as to the appointment of clerks registering the names of voters counting the ballots, &c will govern At all events there can be no doubt that an election so conducted would be a compliance with the requirements of the law.

There are to be elected next Monday a director to hold his office for three years and a clerk for one year These are important offices to the district and should be filled by men who have the confidence of the public, and who will not neglect the business of the district The funds of this district amount to nearly $30 000 annually The management of this large sum of public money should be entrusted only to men above suspicion The prosperity and success of the schools depend to a great extent upon the character of the directors. The scandals of the last year illustrate what evils may be brought upon our schools by the election of even a single director who is incapacitated by ignorance and avarice to discharge the duties of his office If the citizens who might be expected to have the good of the schools at heart, give no attention to the election, but let it go by default, they may blame themselves if another or such as he shall be put by his side, to run the schools for their personal advantage The old way of submitting the interests of the schools to the decision of a mob has been abolished, and the citizens can now exercise a decisive control over the choice of district officers

We do not allude to the indecencies of the last school year, for the especial purpose of calling up the memory of them, though they are a proper subject for criticism in a public journal, but simply to enforce in the strongest manner the idea of the importance of the approaching election, and the necessity of its receiving the attention of the respectable people of the district. We have no candidate for director, and only hope to see the citizens of the district awake to the interests of the schools

In Law Students and Lawyers, Mr A J. Riddle offers those engaged in the study of law such homely advice as the following "Don't cram, don't glance at books, few or many Master them, make it a point to master all you touch. Take the essence of your author, rob him of his soul, squeeze out all his blood, and make them yours Never mind a writer's words, or his old clothes " In his lecture on "The Argument to the Jury," he says "If you would gain the ear of the twelve potentates in the jury box, you must take heed to your manner. Levity is indecent, awful solemnity out of place, pomp and grandeur of manner are obsolete You must be yourself if you can be, if that self is worth being if not, you should be out of court "

The Bulletin has concluded that the true test of worth as a journalist is the question of physique,—that the size of one's body and the amount of adipose matter he carries about with him, and not his brains, determines the question of superiority, and having reached this profound conclusion, the larged framed and lymphatic associate editor of the Bulletin waddles out a half column or so of triumphant crowing over his immense superiority to us specifically, and impliedly to the little editor in chief of that journal This galls us terribly We are forced to confess the superiority of the Custom House editor when tried by this test And this fact is the more annoying when we remember that a fat hog is even more superior to us

In the Senate March 25th, a resolution introduced by Mr Windom of Minnesota relating to the Postal Car question was taken up and passed unanimously The resolution instructs the Select Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard to investigate the alleged refusal of certain railway companies to run postal cars after April 1st The committee was also instructed to report what legislation, if any, may be necessary to insure the protection of the interests of the national Government against the threats of those corporations Shortly after the passage of this resolution, Senators Mitchell and Davies were added to the Select Committee on Transportation Routes to the Seaboard

Paris advices of the 26th of March are to the effect that President Thiers continued illness causes great alarm in political and financial circles At that date fears were expressed for his recovery It is also said that Marshal Bazaine is dangerously ill at Versailles During the past month, the strict surveillance over the Marshal's movements which has been the source of so much complaint, has almost ceased The French heart seems to be warming toward the old soldier, and it is quite probable that his trial, which is to come off in September will result in a complete exoneration of the Marshal from the charges of treachery and incompetency

London dispatches of the 26th of March announce that Count Bernstoff, German Ambassador to Great Britain, died at 7 o clock of that day. For many years the name of Bernstoff has been familiar to Court circles in the monarchies of Europe. Early in the eighteenth century Count Bernstoff's ancestors were entrusted with high ministerial powers and the illustrious diplomat who has just passed away, is said to have been an intimate friend and counsellor of Kaiser William

Dead but Still Living

Senator Sumner's Oblivion Bill introduced into the last Congress is still causing some discussion in the East notwithstanding its failure in Congress and the censure of it by the Massachusetts Legislature The attempt to secure the passage through the last named body of a resolution rescinding the resolution of censure disclosed the fact that the popular sentiment in Massachusetts remains as it was at first The Bay State having through the powerful aid of Mr Sumner himself and others like him only less eminent had as large a share as any State in the Union in making the record which he seeks now to efface does not engage very enthusiastically in the oblivion business In other words, Massachusetts is not ashamed of her part in the civil war nor is she disposed to force ill guided Mississippi and Tennessee to profess to be ashamed of theirs when every sensible person knows perfectly well they are not ashamed of it The high esteem in which Mr Sumner has been held, has caused a very general feeling of regret that any notice was taken of his bill by the Legislature of his State The country would have been better satisfied to let the matter rest where Congress placed it—in oblivion But the people of Massachusetts who felt themselves in some measure compromised in the matter looked at the case differently and their action in the premises is not to be treated as Mr Sumner would treat the record of the war expunged

The Washington Chronicle however, appears to have been converted by the preamble to the Senator's bill to compel the American people to forget the heroism of the national soldiery to the Sumnerian view of the question This is about as cheap an acquisition of outside support to Mr Sumner's cheap magnanimity as one can imagine it possible to make It is only the Hon James Harlan—not the $10,000—that has been captured, but it seems hardly natural that even he should be caught by the apocryphal "whereas" by which the Massachusetts Senator's bill is supported

This irresistible preamble contains two distinct clauses, the first of which lays down a political maxim that is true only sub modo, and is not applicable to the case, while the second states as an historical fact a proposition that is contradicted by the history of the civilized and Christian nations, not excepting that Republic, which, we declare upon the testimony of a million Americans, is, by immense odds, the most civilized and Christian nation that ever existed, or ever will exist on the face of the earth

The apocryphal maxim which constitutes the first clause of this preamble is that "the national unity and good will among fellow citizens can be assured only through oblivion of past differences" If by 'oblivion' is meant an absolute and perfect forgetting, practically, of the ill feelings accompanying the hostilities, if the term, in other words, is used in the same sense as when, in our colloquial language, we speak of forgetting an injury, if it is simply another name for perfect forgiveness, for complete moral amnesty on both sides, we believe every generous minded citizen of the Republic, North and South, would gladly welcome the maxim and its thorough adoption into the policy of the Government But in this sense it is totally inapplicable to Mr Sumner's bill, for the measure he proposed had no reference whatever to the question of amnesty The honored Senator proposed simply to inaugurate a sort of negative mnemotechny to enforce a literal oblivion of the fact of the late civil war The proposition meant, however absurd, exactly this complete effacement of a great historical event from the memory of the nation, as the bill shows, or else it meant nothing Oblivion of this sort, were it possible, will scarcely be acceptable to Americans North, or South, till the heroic spirit and courage that inspired both armies shall have given place to that amiable effeminacy which has just preceded the downfall of past Republics

It has been noticeable for a considerable length of time that for some reason the "national unity and good will of Senator Sumner have not been in the sweetest state of preservation, and it may be that it was for lack of this antiseptic and all healing oblivion to historical facts We should hardly think, however that his mental and moral faculties were suffering from a too vivid recollection of the truths of history when we read the second and last proposition of his preamble 'It is contrary to the usage of civilized nations to perpetuate the memory of civil war,' It is difficult to imagine oblivion more perfect than that which could set this statement down as a fact Until the best historical literature of civilized nations, composed largely from data found in the government repositories alone, shall be considered merely as so much idle fiction, or suppressed by the governments themselves it cannot be truthfully said that 'it is contrary to the usage of civilized nations to perpetuate the memory of civil war' When England shall suppress the story of Naseby and Marston Moor and Preston, when France shall wipe out all those checkered pages of her wonderful history from the first expedition of Simon de Montfort to the eve of black St Bartholomew when the body of glorious old Coligni was dragged through the streets of Paris to be hanged in disgrace long after his great spirit had gone to God—when, indeed one half of all that tissue of truth that is stranger than fiction, which makes up the history of France from the little mayoralty of Hugh Capet to La Vendee shall be expunged from French literature, when Italy shall speak no more of Palestrina and Velletri when the silence of oblivion shall close round the name of William the Silent and when the Yankee Jonathans, children of Washington shall hush their voices into a whisper through fear of legal punishment when they mention Lexington Bunker Hill and Saratoga, and only speak in secrecy the names of Marion, DeKalb and brave old Put —for the war of the Revolution was a civil war when all this shall come to pass Mr Sumner's statement of history will be correct until that time it will be simply a vulgar and very shallow makeshift to bolster up a proposition sprung out of a sickly fancy, and which even the name and fame of the great and justly honored Senator were not able to save from the fate to which the intelligent instincts of the American people generally consign such political shoddy

These words of the great Seward are peculiarly appropriate just now I am not more confident of any truth than I am of this that no republican government can stand that has not for its chief support the morality and virtue of the people I am equally confident that morality and virtue can only be maintained by teaching the Christian religion Hence it is that as a magistrate I deem it a solemn duty on all proper occasions to bear testimony to the sanctions of that religion '

Dark skin don't like red skins—so when 'Greek meets Greek, then comes the tug of war'

The Olympia Courier says "A gentleman, in whose judgment we place considerable reliance writes us from Port Townsend "The letter in the Courier of the 28th inst , from Alert Bay, signed 'Suwanee ' is all a fabrication The same report was made to Capt Stanley, of H M steamship Petrel, and he proceeded to the Indian Mission and interviewed the priest from whom the rumor was said to have started, and the whole thing was pronounced false There is no ground for the report It is a falsehood, cut from whole cloth and should be denounced immediately ' We hope, for the sake of all concerned, that the foregoing is true and feel inclined to believe it is If so we shall probably give the names of the parties who are responsible for the report that was published in our columns a few days since "

Dr Bandel, in a paper read before the Agassiz Institute in San Francisco, thus describes the Alexander Archipelago along the coast of Alaska "It is the northern half of a larger archipelago, which, from the latitude, 48 degrees and 45 minutes from the Straits of Fuca, extends to the latitude of about 60 degrees north * * * On this whole coast, a distance of nearly 1,800 miles, the open ocean cannot be seen from any point of the main land, and a vessel may go from Victoria on Vancouver Island to Sitka on Baranoff Island without sailing one mile on the high seas That part of this immense class of islands and channels which lies north of 54 degrees and 40 minutes, is called the Alexander Archipelago, and contains, according to Russian records, 11,000 islands, which, in my estimation, is rather below than above the truth, as large portions are hardly explored, much less surveyed yet, and, as the Russian charts are very incorrect, and represent, for instance, very often as one island what in reality is a great number, divided by narrow, winding arms of water "

The highest skill is perhaps shown in the construction of their canoes by the Indians of Alaska, the finest of which are built by the Hydas These canoes are of all sizes, and will hold from two to sixty men The largest—the war canoes—show on their high, sweeping sterns and prows the carved totems of the leaders The building of such a canoe requires a long time and peculiar process First, the shape of the canoe is carved out of one log of the yellow cedar; then the inside dug out until its sides are about half an inch thick, and then hot water is daily poured into it, and it is gradually spread by staves placed inside till after many weeks, it assumes that beauty and elegance of form which exceeds that of any craft built by white nations The hot water makes the cedar wood pliable and elastic, and thus of a narrow tree a tolerable large canoe can be built It is propelled by means of paddles and on account of its lightness, its fine form, and the large number of paddles which find room in it, surpasses in speed any boat ever afloat This was splendidly illustrated last winter at a race in Sitka when a canoe easily distanced the champion boat of the American navy belonging to the man of war Saranac

The Pacific Coast Current

The subjoined letter and accompanying paper explain themselves

HUMPTULUP RIVER, W. T , March 22, 1873

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

The enclosed paper was found by an Indian belonging to the Humptulup tribe, on the weather beach twelve miles north of Chehalis Point, or six miles north of the entrance to Gray's Harbor It was tightly corked in a large glass bottle, and as the writer has a curiosity to satisfy I have chosen Portland instead of San Francisco to comply with his request, thinking it will meet the same attention You can hand it to the commander of the Oriflamme or you can satisfy his curiosity through the columns of your widely circulated paper Do as you think proper It may be beneficial to him, as it may give him some idea of the current The bottle was found between the 1st and 4th of March

I am most respectfully yours

H M SUTTON

The paper referred to is a half sheet of foolscap, apparently a leaf from a record book, upon which is written the following

"Steamship Oriflamme of Portland, Oregon January 30 1873 Off the Umpqua coast of Oregon, on a voyage from San Francisco to Portland If this should be found please forward to San Francisco and oblige

FRANCIS CONNOR

Commander Steamship Oriflamme"

We have forwarded the original to Capt Connor, according to request

The fabulous sum of money which was paid for the famous Emma mine, in Utah, opened our eyes in wonder to the vast richness of the mineral fields of the Wahsatch range It is now said in Washington City that a valuable lode lying south of and quite near the Emma mine, has recently been purchased by a corporation known as the New Orleans and Utah Mining Company for the sum of $3 600 000 Our authority says

> The company have had the value of the mine investigated, and report says that $ 00 000 worth of ore is in sight The officers and stockholders of the company are all New Orleans men with the exception of Mr Woolley of Utah from whom the mine was purchased

The dashing Senator from Georgia Gen J B Gordon was called to the Chair of the Senate a few days since, by Vice President Wilson It is remarked that this is the first time an ex Confederate has filled the Vice President's chair and the event possesses considerable significance as illustrative of the return of the golden age of fellowship and good feeling in our National Legislature

The suit of the United States against the Union Pacific Railroad which was ordered by the Forty Second Congress, will probably be tried in Boston

WASHED ASHORE —The following is from the Standard, Victoria, under date 27th ult "The steamer Etta White arrive last night at 7 30 from Nanaimo bringing that the steamer Otter was lying there wh left The Otter picked up on the coast, b Nanaimo and Skeena, the body of a chil posed to have met its untimely death at the of the steamer Geo. S Wright The fac the body of the child found—a boy app about six years old—having a life preser tached to it, proves the supposition th steamer G S Wright blew up, to be er and confirms the idea that she went to piec the sunken rocks and that desperate effor made to save the lives of those on boar death struggles being superhuman Th found was much disfigured from being against the rocks or from being mutilated inhabitants of the deep. The above infor seems to have been received directly, an titled to some credit However, the only tion contained in any of the accounts as passengers that a child was on boar small son of a Mr Hogan The age of t was not stated, and this fact, together w direct manner in which the report came, a plausible coloring to the whole story.

SALMON FISHING.—Salmon fishing com yesterday at the various fisheries along th Columbia. From present indications the promises to be unusually active, and the very substantial During the last two an immense number of the cans ha manufactured at the several fisheries of H Hume & Co , G W Hume, R D Hum West & Co , Watson Bros , and F. M. preparatory to the inauguration of the fishing season At the fishery of H Hume & Co , the average number turned out daily for over a month w 10,000 The average number manu at the other points mentioned is much h firm alluded to, but sufficient to aggregat tonishingly large number Should the prove favorable there will probably be cans put up this year, at the several points an immense quantity of said salmon hundred men will be kept constantly emplo ing the fishing season. The amount of w sides the purchase of tin, salt, and other als, will call for the outlay of a very larg money We are informed that one firm expend over $50,000

OFFICIALLY INSPECTED.—Major Rob returned to this city a few days since acc by Capt Spotts has just completed an o spection tour of all the light houses on the coast. Everything was found to be in condition, and the inspection revealed no cies in any of the departments or want tancy on the part of the several keepers direction of the Board of Engineers, Maj inspected Sand Island, Point Adams an about one mile below the last mentione with a view to the location of a site on w erect a light house. He has also been in to inspect Point Nopoint on the norther and several other competing points, with object in view Major Roberts has also dared to forward to Washington a report o inspection of the mouth of the Umpqu that the practicability of erecting a lig at that point may be examined into by th ment This report will be forwarded to nation in a few days On the out-goin for San Francisco the Major will take hi ture on special business connected with h ment.

NEW PILOT BOAT.—We are informed eral of the Columbia river bar pilots h tiated with certain parties in San Fran the purchase of the schooner Fanny, be brought around to the mouth of th bia river and employed as a pilot boat. yet known when the vessel will be brough but assurances have been given that i be long The Fanny will be employ sively as a pilot boat Whenever a bar schooner appears off the bar a pilot will craft at once, and, if the weather wil pass out and put the pilot on board, bound in This will materially facilitat the bar, and obviate the usual vexatio tions It often happens that vessels are compelled to await for days the arri tug, even when the bar is smooth and fair, but having no pilot on board are lie at anchor When this pilot schoon the first object to accomplish, when a pears in sight, will be to place on boa The first favorable opportunity pres vessel can pass into the river with safe

PROPELLED BY WATER.—At the cor der and Third streets can be seen a sm machine which is propelled by a strea fed from a hydrant. A small iron wh one foot in diameter, and enclosed in box, is attached firmly by screws to one machine platform The iron box is cepting a small aperture on opposite the water finds admittance and also es one aperture a small lead pipe is atta nected with a water main A pipe of mension leads from the opening on the conveys the water off The instant t turned on the wheel is caused to rapid and the motion is communicated to th Underneath the machine the treadle in such a manner to the pipe that th water can be regulated by a slight pre foot By this contrivance the motion chine can be regulated at pleasure the invention is both novel and clever

LARGE ENGINES.—The large and engines to be used on board the Daisy have been completed at the Oregon Ir and will be shipped to the Dalles this These engines are probably the largest out from those works The cylinde inches larger in diameter than those of Emma Hayward, and weighs 13,000 6,500 apiece. All the steam jointings the engines The machinery will all ning condition in a few weeks, steamer will not be launched for some

MEETING.—There will be a meeting bath School of the Baptist Church thi 6.30 in connection with the Sunday vention, now in session The exercis sist of singing by the children and sh by different clergymen. During the Pastor will baptize several members day School who have recently pro version. After the children's meeti T B Van Horne will address the Co the relation of Sunday schools to na perity

AT THE FRONT —A gentleman jus burg informs us that a heavy rain that place on Tuesday night The r descend in torrents about two o'cloc morning, and up to the time of the the train was still raining The sta to arrive promptly on time at Ro withstanding the roads are very m siderable damage has been sustained graph along at several points, but th have been got in good working conditi

EXPECTED SHORTLY.—The rema material belonging to the lantern wh used in the new lighthouse at Cape is expected to arrive on every steame delay in the arrival of this indispen rial, has necessitated a partial suspe work. On the arrival of the article work will be resumed with vigor unti is in complete readiness Signal lig displayed from the lantern within tw the material shall have arrived

OFF FOR CLATSOP —Mr. A Good Astoria yesterday on the California place he will proceed to Clatsop be after the building of Holladay's Ho cottages at that place. Twenty wag ployed in transporting lumber to building Mr Goodnough has a doors, windows and other work re the building mentioned above

HIS OLD PLACE —Mr J. C Willi been acting for the last two months the steamer Rescue, resumed his old terday on the O S N Co's wharf as Mr Williams, by his uniform court commodating disposition, has won th gards of the reporting fraternity of th W G Dillingham, formerly of the st is now purser on the Rescue

APRIL FOOLS DAY —There were who found time yesterday to play pr on unsuspecting persons We have any calls for "pistols and coffee" a count of serious jokes played.

Under Mount Baker.

[From the Art Journal.]

Oh wondrous twilight-tinted land,
O, silent art and shining strand,
And snowy mountains, gleaming bright
Beneath the May moon's mellow light!

We rowed along the fir-fringed bank,
Beneath the weeping alders dank,
Where tiny wavelets lapped the shore,
Disturbed by dip of Indian oar.

Then lightly o'er the bending trees
An o'er them played the fitful breeze,
While ruby rhododendron blooms
Shed softly o'er us sweet perfumes.

Anon we saw the full moon rise,
Queen of these wondrous Northern skies,
Casting on leaf and bursting bud
The radiance of its silver flood.

The wild duck, startled from its rest
In some lone nook, shook from its breast
Sprays of green seaweed round our boat,
While from the blue-winged heron's throat

Came sad and plaintively, that cry
The hunter hears and with a sigh
Shudders, and whispers in affright,
"Death seeks some hapless soul to-night!"*

Oh, balmy, balsam breathing trees,
Oh, drowsy nights and dewy breeze!
Too beautiful to e'er forget,
For me, alas thy moons have set.

What kind of cattle do they have out at Zanesville? A man there advertises that he wants "a woman to wash, iron, and milk one or two cows." Washing may do cows good, but we don't think they will like ironing.

There is no time when a woman so thoroughly commands the respect of a man as when she is about to throw a stone at a hen. Especially is this the case if he happens to be standing behind her and is lame in one leg.

The Chicago Journal thinks "if the Goddess of Justice really has an abiding place in Albany, she had better pull the bandage from her eyes and see what people are doing in her name." But what are you going to do with a "people" that would say to the Goddess, under such circumstances, "Pull and be hanged?"—Commercial Advertiser.

The Chicago Post has this interesting announcement; "Queen Victoria will appear in public next season, more than she has during any year since the death of Prince Albert." The queen remarked to us, the last time we saw her, says the Courier-Journal, that whenever she determined to go into society more than usual, she would let us know through the Chicago Post.

The San Francisco Chronicle says: "A young man entered a restaurant last night, being attracted by the sign, 'Fresh boiled crabs, fifteen cents.' He sat down, had a crab dished up, ate it, and threw fifteen cents on the counter. The keeper demanded a quarter. 'I thought that sign read fifteen cents,' suggested the young man. So it does. It's twenty-five cents when you take 'em here, and fifteen cents when you take 'em home.' 'Well,' was the reply, 'I'm taking this home,' and he coolly walked out."

The English infidel, Mr. Bradlaugh, at the conclusion of a lecture, called upon any person to reply to his arguments. An English paper thus tells what resulted from the invitation: A collier rose and spoke somewhat as follows: "Maister Bradlaugh, me and my mate Jim were both Methodys, till one of these infidel chaps cum' this way. Jim turned infidel, and used to badger me about attending prayer meetings; but one day in the pit a large cob of coal came down upon Jim's head. Jim thought he was killed, and, ah, mon! but he did holler and cry to God." Then turning to Mr. Bradlaugh, with a knowing look, he said: "Young man, there's now't like cobs of coal for knocking infidelity out of a man."

In Texas, the other day, a doctor rode fifty miles to attend a patient. After he had cured the patient he presented a bill of fifty dollars, and proceeded to complete his preparations for the journey back to the post, thinking no more about the matter. As he was about to mount, the patient's husband put in an appearance, with his trusty rifle in his hand. "Doctor," said he, "I reckon we'd better settle this here matter now." And taking him aside, he continued: "You wan't goin' off without a settlement was you? I don't want to owe no man nothing'. Here is a ten, which I reckon is about the squar thing. Now, if yer ain't satisfied, jest get yer weepon and come round behind the hill thar so's the old woman won't be riled up, and we'll settle it. I don't want no man to go 'way from my house dissatisfied, 'specially you, Doc."

A Paris dispatch of March 26th announces the death of Countess Guiccioli, once notorious as an alleged intimate of Lord Byron, and who gained considerable fame through Mrs. Stowe's famous work on the Byron scandal. The dispatch says:

Teresa Gamba Countess Guiccioli was of Italian parentage. She was born in Romagna in 1800, and at the age of sixteen was married to Count Guiccioli, an Italian nobleman. She owes her celebrity to her alleged liaison with Lord Byron in 1820. She wrote a work called "My Recollections of Lord Byron," although her own name does not appear as the writer. There appears to be no doubt as to authorship.

Some time since we mentioned the fact that Minister Gladstone had announced in the House of Commons that the Governments of of England and the United States had determined to present each of the Geneva arbitrators with a testimonial to the patience and honesty which characterized all their labors A New York dispatch says

Tiffany & Co, the well known manufacturers and jewelers, have now on exhibition at their store on Broadway three magnificent solid silver services, designed for presentation by the United States Government to three of the Arbitrators to the Geneva Conference. Each set consists of five parts, as follows A mammoth punch bowl of unique design, two massive candelabras and two elegant wine-coolers The services are severally designed for presentation to Herr Jacob Sampfli, Count Sclopis, and Baron D'Iturba, three of the Geneva Arbitrators The first was appointed by Switzerland, the second and third by the King of Italy and Emperor of Brazil. The following is the inscription on the punch-bowl of Sampfli's set "The United States of America to M. J Sampfli, arbitrator named by His Excellency the President of Switzerland, as a mark of appreciation of the dignity, learning and ability and impartiality with which he discharged his various duties" The two other punch bowls bear similar inscriptions, the name of Sclopis and D'Iturba being substituted. The sets are inclosed in handsome, rich mahogany cases, gilt, bound and lined with blue satin velvet. The cases are about four feet and a half wide, and about three feet deep Each separate case alone cost $600 The whole was manufactured by Tiffany & Co, and will be presented at the same time as the other cases now in preparation by the English Government for the other Arbitrators.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

Financial.

TUESDAY EVENING, April 1, 1873.

Gold in New York to-day, 117¼.

Portland Legal Tender rates, 86 buying; 87 selling

Gold bars are quotable at 800 fine

Wheat in Liverpool —Average California, 11s 4d@11s 6d; club 11s 9d@12s

The New York Herald says the sharp demand for Money was relieved to some extent by the Washington report that the Secretary of the Treasury had commenced to make use of the $44,000,000 legal tender reserve for his present wants in the way of currency, his supply of "the needful" having been, as was jocosely explained, suddenly absorbed in paying the departing members of Congress their self voted extra or back pay, the appropriation for which had not been provided by the low balance of Mr Boutwell. The New York Tribune says of Tuesday's business, "the money market was much less stringent than for many weeks, and the more general quotation on the call loans among the stock brokers was the 64th and interest. The highest rate paid was a 16th and interest (exceptionally), and the lowest 7, coin." The New York Times thinks "there is no present reason to suppose that the stringency is 'artificial,' or produced by any deliberate 'lock-up' on the part of lenders, or from stock manipulations to depress the market. The truth seems to be that the Stock Exchange Brokers are carrying forward a much larger amount of Stocks and unavailable Bonds (unavailable in a sense of a demand from the public) than there is spare Cash at bank, or Cash balances in the hands of street lenders to make the movement either comfortable or reasonably cheap."

High Freights at the East.

The Boston Post of the 18th has the following in reference to the subject of freights:

We alluded yesterday to the encouraging prospect for first-class shipping, based upon freights from San Francisco, Guano Islands, Australia and East Indian ports. For smaller vessels, the reports from coastwise ports are also favorable. At Baltimore the supply of vessels is inadequate to the wants of shippers—$4 per ton offered for coal to Boston, which is a remunerative figure. Philadelphia to Boston, $2 75 per ton pays well. From Jacksonville to Boston it is pleasing to learn that $14 is offered for lumber; $12 to New York, and $10@11 to Philadelphia; $28 offered for hard pine from Southern ports to South America—an extreme rate. At New Orleans on the 6th inst., only one ship in port disengaged, no American bark, and only two or three smaller vessels unemployed New England shipbuilders are many of them quite busy, having orders for more small vessels than they can promptly execute, and we certainly never heard until quite recently of having runners out in search of ship-carpenters. Many of the old hands have gone into other business, and apprentices in this branch in New England, during the last ten years have been "few and far between."

The New York Shipping List says the tonnage supply has not been so tight in a long series of years as it has been at this and the neighboring ports during the last few months. Nor is this scarcity exceptionally incident to this country. Our advices from all the great ports of the world indicate a similar state of affairs. Freights are firm in all directions, and the present indications are highly favorable to the employment of all the tonnage that is likely to be forthcoming. It is safe to say that the average of rates for the current year in all the leading trades on the Atlantic will be fully twenty-five per cent above that of last year. It affords us unfeigned pleasure to chronicle the fact that the shipowners, who have so long suffered from an apparently chronic depression of their interest, are at length entering upon a career of renewed prosperity.

Dry Goods Market.

The opening of the spring trade has been delayed by the late heavy rains and business under this head has been somewhat spasmodic. Interior merchants are not very active, though their orders are coming in a little more freely. The prospects seem to look more encouraging in all departments of the dry goods trade, and a very confident feeling exists that as soon as the weather becomes settled business will be brisk, and that, as the market generally has maintained its firmness up to this late period in face of the backwardness of the season, the active demand, which cannot be much longer delayed, will keep prices strong. But while all this is true, it must be admitted that purchasers buy with caution, limiting their purchases chiefly to moderately assorted lots, which do not much anticipate their wants. They will not risk the payments of large bills long before the goods are sold. The season is very backward in many parts of the country, and the retail trade dull, money tight and very difficult to collect; such reports come from all sections. Many country merchants are asking extensions on their accounts, and a few small failures are reported; but the general condition of the trade is considered safe, though, owing to the condition of affairs just alluded to, many will be very late in making their appearance in the market, and some will be under the necessity of buying rather sparingly in their first purchases.

The Railroad and P. M. Companies.

The following is the text of the dispatch concerning the rupture between the Pacific Railroad Companies and the Pacific Mail Steamship Company:

The New York Shipping List editorially announces a rupture in the freighting combination between the Pacific Railroads and the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. The combination was arranged by guaranteeing the steamers a certain amount of earnings each trip, in consideration of which the railroad people expected to remove the opposition of the steamers. The new arrangement, it was expected, would enable the railroads to retain all the railroad business previously enjoyed, and the freight necessary to be secured to carry out their agreement with the Steamship Company was to be diverted from sailing vessels, via Cape Horn The editor of the Shipping List says: Everything looked promising. The management of the steamer business in New York, making separate rates, etc, was entrusted to a railroad man at Omaha and his deputy at New York, neither of whom had any better idea of the business in hand than the backwoodsman who, on his first visit to a ship, in company with a friend, made use of the wonderful remark, "I swan, Zeke, she's hollow"

The sequel has proved that this well digested and matured plan for the railroad people has come to grief. Any person who has taken pains to examine the results of the steamers as regards the amount of freight carried to San Francisco, under agreement, must arrive at the inevitable conclusion that the railroads are in debt to the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. As a natural consequence notice of the termination of the contract by the railroad company has been given. Thus, this iniquitous arrangement, having for its object the levying of a subsidy on legitimate commerce, almost amounting to black mail, has met its inevitable fate From its first inception it has been controlled and managed in New York, by parties entirely ignorant of the trade or the people engaged in it, who were unable to popularize the movement. The result has been to increase shipments via the Horn, as the statistics of last year abundantly show. Besides increasing the amount of transportation by the longest route it has turned into that channel quantities of goods that would naturally seek rail and steamer transportation

Miscellaneous.

The Oakland Transcript declares that the coal discovered in the foot hills has the appearance of English cannel coal, and is superior to any found on the coast. Abating this extravagant estimate somewhat, it is still true that there are extensive veins of coal much nearer to Oakland and San Francisco than most people have supposed With a down grade from the foot hills to Oakland, and a short tow across the Bay, coal may very soon be laid down at $2 a ton cheaper in San Francisco than ever before So many important coal discoveries are being made, from Arizona to Alaska that we have good reasons for believing that within a few years coal will be as cheap in San Francisco as in any city in the Union

The State of Massachusetts in 1867 ventured to repeal her usury laws, which were much less severe and less mischievous than those of other States. After an experience of six years, Mr. J. S. Ropes, the President of the Boston Board of Trade, testifies that the workings of the present law are popular among both borrowers and lenders. All parties agree that borrowers are not injured by the repeal of the usury laws, but the opponents of repeal assume that it is possible to protect borrowers by denouncing severe penalties against usury. But if usury could have been repressed by legislation it would have been done long ago.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary.

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies—see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN.

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary ones of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy too work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian
